Dr Shashikala Assella

Dr Shashikala Assella is a Senior Lecturer teaching English literature at the Department of English, University of Kelaniya. Her main research and teaching are on postcolonial literature, women's writing and science fiction while her continuing interest in popular culture, especially audio-visual productions from a global cultural arena, makes her watch too many movies and other cultural productions.

She is dabbling in Digital Humanities and also encourages others to view approaches to English literature and the humanities through a millennial-friendly digital lens. She has had her research published in many peer reviewed collections ranging from 'Cambridge Scholar' to Rawat publications.
