Rules for using forums

Teachers and students can discuss and share ideas and views on the topics being studied and learning English in general on the forum.. Students cannot start forums but are able to post comments, appropriate images, and URLs in reply to discussions started by their teacher and posts by other students. When using forums, we ask that students follow these rules:

- All forums posts must be in English. Comments in any other language will be deleted.
- Email addresses, phone numbers and 'bad or abusive' language are not allowed.
- Students must not post links to any file sharing websites; any such links will be deleted.
- If students have any concerns regarding any content or posts on the forum, they should report them immediately to their teacher.
- Failure to abide by this behaviour policy may lead to the student's suspension or exclusion from the course.

All forums will be regularly monitored to ensure that the rules above and British Council policies are being followed.

- By ticking this box, my child and I agree to follow these rules.
